Today, it is essential for organizations to pay greater attention to data and information, which must be considered as a valuable strategic resource. However, many organizations are challenged by determining the right way to improve the level of data quality. Sasa Baskarada presents a capability maturity model for information quality management process assessment and improvement. The author employed six exploratory case studies and a four round Delphi study to gain a better understanding of the research problem and to build the preliminary model, which he then applied to seven international case studies for further enhancement and external validation. The model is a set of evaluation tools and methodologies, which are intended to assist with the identification of relevant problems and solutions. Thus, the Information Quality Management Capability Maturity Model (IQM-CMM) may provide organizations with a measure of their maturity in information quality management, along with recommendations for increasing the level of maturity.
