In late Victorian-era America, women married for convenience as often as they married for love. When passion seems a distant hope, how delightful it is that God surprises three young women with second-chance love just in time for the holidays.

* SEAMS LIKE LOVE by Judith Miller: Betrayed by the man she thought God had designed for her, a resident of the Amana Colonies packs away her wedding quilts as well as any plans for marriage. But God has other plans.

* A PATCHWORK LOVE by Stephanie Grace Whitson: A young widow is headed west to marry a prosperous businessman she barely knows in order to give her daughter a better life when a snowstorm strands them in the middle of nowhere.

* THE BRIDAL QUILT by Nancy Moser: A wealthy ingénue--the toast of New York--inadvertently causes grave injury to a man who saves a street orphan from her carriage. But then she discovers he's a man from her past...

Surprised by the possibility of love, each woman must search her heart, change her plans, make a decision, and patch together a tender, unexpected life filled with love.
